Terrible Storm Is Sweeping Over Alaska Coast Today

John Schuler Fatally Burned When Gas Tank Explodes

John Schuler, a well known plumber and tinsmith of Wrangell yesterday afternoon while starting to patch an empty gasoline tank on board the gasboat Kingfisher lit a candle to see what he was doing thereby setting the gas in the tank afire and causing a terrible explosion. Mr. Schuler was lying on his back in the bottom of the boat when the explosion came ripping the tank open right at his face and terribly burning him. Brando Rosaneo who was in the boat watching the proceedings dragged the burned man from the burning boat. Mr. Schuler was rushed to the Wrangell Hospital where every effort was made to save him but to no avail and he passed away from the effects of the burn at five thirty this morning. Brando Rosaneo is now under the doctors care and is burned terrible but his recovery is assured although he is burned badly about the face and hands, his face being swollen so that both eyes are closed.

The Wrangell Fire Department of which he was one of the founders have taken charge of the remains and will hold the funeral next Saturday at twelve-thirty, noon at the City Hall.

Sweden To Enter War For Germany

London, Jan. 20—It is believed here that Sweden is preparing to enter the conflict on the side of Germany and her allies.

Read The Sentinel.

Alaska seems to be in the grip of one of the fiercest blizzards that has ever swept the coast. All last night and today the Stikine has howled her defiance and since daybreak the thermometer has steadily fallen. The government register at the Customs House at seven this morning was three degrees below zero. at twelve noon it was five below and at six tonight it read ten below. Several other thermometers at different places in the city register differently but the majority are close to that reading. Not only is the storm taking effect at Wrangell but other Alaskan cities report the same as follows:

Coldest Since 1884 At Juneau

Juneau, Jan. 20—A terrific blizzard started here yesterday morning about eleven o'clock and has steadily been growing ever since. This is the worst storm that Juneau has seen since 1884 when it dropped to ten below. It is difficult to walk along the streets on account of the strong Taku blowing, all shipping on the channel is paralyzed many of the big buildings are rocking on their foundations, many signs have blown away, several glass fronts have blown in, chimneys are reported blown down and the water front is lashed to a fury.

Three Fires At Juneau—15 Below
Juneau, Jan. 20—5 P. M.—It is growing steadily colder here, it is fifteen below zero and the thermometer still falling. Three fires broke out this afternoon, the first in the Maloney block where three hundred dollar damage was done and was only controlled after a very narrow escape of the adjoining buildings. The other blazes were only small ones and little damage resulted.

Water Main At Seward Froze
Seward, Jan. 20—The water mains of this city are frozen and the city is without water. The weather is intense cold and a storm is raging.

Coldest In Years At Valdez
Valdez, Jan. 20—This city is seeing some of the coldest weather in many years, for the first time in its history the water mains are froze.

Blizzard At Cordova—Mains Froze
Cordova, Jan. 20—The same blizzard seems to prevail here as in other Alaska coast towns. The thermometer is registering way below zero and the water mains are frozen solid.

Cold At Ketchikan
Ketchikan, Jan. 20—The coldest weather in years prevails here the thermometer registering below zero.

Walter Paul Accidentally Drowned---Jap Given 10 Months

As recorded in last weeks Sentinel the body of Walter Paul, native, who was drowned last week was brought to Wrangell last Friday, together with all witnesses to the case, and an inquest was held and a verdict of accidental drowning returned.

The facts of the case as brought out at the inquest seem to be, that Walter Paul and Harry Yura, a Japanese, left Wrangell on their way to Kake, and when near five mile island they overtook another gas boat belonging to Geo. White, who was aboard with his wife and another native named Jack George. Walter Paul put a tow line on the boat and towed them to the mouth of Wrangell Narrows where they anchored for the night. It seems that before leaving town that Yura had purchased a good supply of liquor and that night after anchoring Jack George came aboard the boat and the three of them started to sample the fire water and before long they were under the influence of the booze, the Japanese and Jack George laid down on the bunk and went to sleep. The Jap awoke some time later hearing cries from the water and arousing Jack George they went out on deck and discovered Walter Paul struggling in the water. After some time they succeeded in getting a boat lowered and dragged the drowning man on deck where they tried to revive him but all efforts were in vain and he never regained consciousness after being taken from the water. After all efforts to bring him too proved of no avail his body was placed in the hole of the ship and the next morning they preceded to Petersburg and reported the affair to Marshall Kildall there.

As the Commissioner at Petersburg was away the case was placed in the hands of Commissioner Thomas here who wired to bring the body and witnesses here for the inquest. Harry Yura at a hearing pleaded guilty of the charge of furnishing liquor to Indians and was sentenced to serve ten months in the Federal jail at Juneau. He will be taken north on the boat tomorrow by Marshall Wallace to start serving his sentence.

Greece Enters Conflict For Germany

Juneau, Jan. 18—The sensation in today's news is that Greece has entered the conflict on the side of Germany and her allies. It is believed that the allies will occupy Athens, the allies have presented an ultimatum to Greece asking her to deliver passports to the Ministers of Turkey, Germany and Austria Hungary, and are given forty eight hours to comply. France is landing an enormous number of troops within five miles of Athens and plans to dethrone King Constantine and place Venizelos on the throne.

Big Storm Sweeping The Hawaii Island

San Francisco, Jan. 20—According to reports reaching here a great storm is sweeping the Hawaiian Islands, seven deaths have been reported, many bridges are destroyed and the damage is placed at about fifteen millions of dollars. Many ships are reported ashore at different points.

Antiquity of the Saw.

The saw is the earliest tool that has been traced in Egyptian history. It was found first in the form of a notched bronze knife in the third dynasty, or about 5,000 years before the Christian era, and was followed in the fourth and fifth dynasties by larger toothed saws, which were used by carpenters, but there are no dated specimens until the seventh century before the Christian era, when the Assyrians used iron saws. The first knives on record were made out of flint and were in fact saws with minute teeth. They probably were used for cutting up animals, as the teeth would break away even on soft wood. Rasps, which are but a form of saw, were first made of sheets of bronze, punched and rolled round, but the Assyrians in the seventh century used the straight rasp made of iron similar to the modern type. In the present day the saw is probably used more than any other tool. It has taken three distinct forms for the working of both wood and metal—the straight saw, the band saw and the circular saw.

The Canvasback.

Of all the wild fowl family the canvasback duck is easily the king. Its flesh is matchless in sweet flavor unless it be by that of the redhead, and the extremely high price of it shows how precious and rare it has become. Not many years ago there was little difficulty in procuring a good bag of this bird on the shores of the Chesapeake, where it feeds upon the wild celery that gives distinction to its flesh. Today the canvasback is a rare avis. Indeed, it is going the way of all flesh, only faster than most, and its disappearance will be, unlike that of the dodo, a gustatory calamity. Its funeral procession follows close upon the obsequies of the prairie hen and the wild turkey. Voracious man, gun in hand, has been as thoughtless as a gluttonous child and sought to eat all his cake at a gulp.—Philadelphia Press.

A Very Lucky Smoke.

A curious story comes from Vienna. A young man, the representative of a famous firm, who carried a large sum of money with him, spent the night at a hotel at Pressburg. According to his usual custom, he remained some time smoking in bed. Suddenly the burning cigar fell to the floor. He bent over to extinguish it when he saw a hand project from under the bed and put out the fire. It made him very uncomfortable, and he lay for fifteen minutes thinking. Then he said aloud: "How very cold it is! I must get my fur coat." Jumping out of bed, he ran to the door, opened it and shouted for help, and the robber was caught. He confessed his crime and then added that he had been a fireman formerly and could not resist the impulse to extinguish the burning cigar.

Got His Answer.

A grocer said to a little girl one election day:
"Who is your father going to vote for this morning, my dear?"
"I don't know," the little girl answered.
"Will he vote the Republican ticket?"
"I don't know."
"I wonder if he'll vote Democrat?"
"I don't know."
"He wouldn't vote Prohibition surely?"
"I don't know."
The grocer as he tied up the little girl's package sneezed:
"Well, you don't know much, and that's a fact."
"You know less," the little girl answered, "or you wouldn't be asking so many questions."—Exchange.

Corrected.

The annoyances to which pedestrians in large cities are subjected and the sometimes positive dangers to which they are exposed occasionally give rise to real jests. Take this one:
Two young men walking beneath an elevated railway in a town that shall be nameless were appalled to find themselves the recipients of a bucketful of oily liquid dropped on their heads from above.
"So this is America!" sneered the first, wiping his neck.
"It's not," declared the second. "This is Greece!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Fashion Frills.

Hats to be smaller? Is a diameter of four feet "smaller?"—Boston Journal.
A man often needs a new hat when he doesn't want it, but there are no women like that.—Arlington Globe.
The story from Paris that Empress Eugenie was astonished recently to learn the price of modern gowns may not be true, but it has a good moral as a fable.—New York World.

English Etchings.

In London only persons over the age of sixteen may pawn goods.
Last year British shipyards turned out more than 1,750,000 tons of new shipping.

Must Be Queer.

"He's a peculiar chap."
"Why so?"
"He not only goes shopping with his wife, but he also admits that he likes to."—Detroit Free Press.

VALUABLE PILING TIMBER.

British Guiana Greenheart Used in Panama Canal Locks.

The secretary of the Institute of mines and forests of British Guiana in a book of information which is issued as an official document writes as follows:

There are three varieties of greenheart—yellow, black and maintop—all most serviceable and durable woods if cut at maturity. Greenheart is one of the tallest forest trees of British Guiana, and logs can be had from eighteen to twenty-four inches square and seventy feet long. It grows in clay soil near the rivers and creeks. Owing to the great demand for this timber and the absence of legal restriction to prevent the cutting of the young trees it is becoming extremely difficult to produce good greenheart, and its preservation is worthy of the attention of the legislature.

Greenheart is already familiar to the trade, being highly esteemed for all classes of submerged work—piles, dock gates, etc. It is one of the eight first class woods of Lloyd's, and admirable keelsons, knees and other timbers can be had of it. Sawed into scantling it is used for planking vessels. For wharfs, house framing, mill timbers and many other purposes greenheart is unsurpassed by any other wood in the colony.

The Panama consulting engineers after a comparison of the world's woods have adopted British Guiana greenheart for the Panama canal locks, regarding it as superior to Australian ironback wood in its resistance to the teredo.

Though the excellence of greenheart has never been so prominently brought before the notice of the world, its durability and suitability for lock gates are widely known. Most of the lock gates constructed in the Mersey during the last twenty years have been made with it, as have those at the Manchester ship canal, and when the necessity occurred for enlarging some of the canal lock gates fully thirty years after they were placed in position it was found that the wood was in such an excellent state of preservation that it could be used over again.

Ship With Three Skins.

The launching of the Iron Duke at Portsmouth, England, recently, marks a new era in British naval construction. The vessel is the twenty-eighth British Dreadnought to take the water. Her displacement is 23,400 tons, and her main battery consists of ten 13.5 inch guns firing shells of 1,400 pounds, or 150 pounds more than the projectiles fired by former weapons of this caliber.

The chief feature, however, of the new Dreadnought is the improvement that she demonstrates in her protection against submarine attack. Over the whole length of the "vitals" from the first turret to the last the hull of the ship consists of three separate skins, so that even if the two outer ones should be pierced by rocks or torpedoes the stability of the vessel would not be impaired.

Producing Tungsten Wire.

Ductile metallic tungsten is now produced in the electric furnace. Tungsten particles have been hitherto welded into a continuous filament by passing an electric current through a binding material containing the metallic particles and driven off by the high heat. By this new method the metallic tungsten can be drawn into wire much stronger and more rugged than the twisted filaments.

His Great Scheme.

"Yes, this is a wonderful country, but I'd hate to live here. You say two tornadoes have swept through this region since you bought the ranch?"
"Yes, in plain sight of my house."
"Great Scott! And you are going to stay here?"
"I guess yes. I'm going to stick here and make my everlasting fortune."
"How?"
"I've got a motion picture machine all ready for the next one."—Chicago Tribune.

His Offense.

"Exceeding the limit!" cried Dawson. "Why, judge, your roads around here are so rotten a man couldn't go faster than ten miles an hour without endangering his life."
"That's the pint," said the justice of the peace. "You've exceeded the limit of safety, and we find ye guilty of attempting suicide. Ten dollars, if ye please."—Harper's Weekly.

His Real Need.

"Young Jones says that all that he needs is a start."
"No. What he needs is a self-starter."—American Lumberman.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/4 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and removes dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

F. Matheson Gets Letter About Stikine Trail

Owing to the fact that matters seemed to be progressing rather slowly in regard to the Dry Strait survey, Mr. F. Matheson, who has the matter in charge, recently wrote to Delegate Wickersham regarding the affair and received a reply in answer which states, "On December 8th I wrote to the Secretary of War asking about the report of the Engineer on the matter of the Dry Strait improvement and on the 14th he wrote me saying that he had not yet received it from the District Engineers Office. I send you herewith a copy of his letter and shall watch this matter as carefully as I can, and get the report and have it printed and send a copy. I will introduce a bill for the work if the report is favorable, if it is not I will let you know at once."

A paragraph taken from the letter from the War Office to Mr. Wickersham, that is of interest on the subject is, "and in reply, to inform you that these reports have not yet been received from the district engineers office, it cannot be stated definitely at this time when they may be expected, but the Chief of Engineers had been requested to notify you upon their receipt in his office."

An engineer from the engineers office of the department at Seattle was in Wrangell last summer and made a preliminary investigation of the survey and it is thought by many that his report on the matter will be favorable.

Wants To Go After The Mexicans

Washington, Jan. 18—Senator William Borah, of Idaho, yesterday demanded immediate intervention in Mexico as the only solution to our problem.

The Wrangell Orchestra gave a good time dance at the Rink last Saturday evening. Only one incident marred the enjoyment of the evening and that was caused by Mrs. Richmond, the piano player, becoming sick and was forced to go home. Her place was filled by Miss Eleanore Lynch who delightfully entertained the dancers the remainder of the evening.

The Hand He Held.
Fragments of conversation drifted in from the billiard room, where the husband and his friends were enjoying their cigars. "I called," said the husband happily, "and when it came to a showdown as to who was the winner, why, the other fellow simply didn't have a chance! And so I stretched out my hands and gathered in that which really gave me my start. I think that I did better that night than any man in our crowd has ever done. Ah, what a hand I held! I always recall that night with thrills of pleasure."

The young wife slipped away, her face dyed with a deep pink. "The old dear is telling Mr. Blinker how he cut out Freddy Barker and made me say 'Yes,'" she whispered to herself. "Isn't he just perfect!"—Puck.

Why this man bought a Remington Junior Typewriter

have been investigating several of the new makes of machines, looking for one simple construction for operation, and later writing. I was ready to buy a machine of one of the first time the Remington Junior Typewriter was found it to be the very thing I wanted.

The man who wrote this is the postmaster of a small town. He is only one of thousands who have recently bought a Remington Junior. But his reasons apply to everybody—they apply to YOU.

The Remington Junior is our latest product and the latest idea in typewriting.

It is strictly a high-grade machine.

It has the Remington Name, the Remington Guarantee, the Remington Quality—everything Remington except weight and bulk.

A "Simplified Remington" describes it exactly.

And its price is $50.00

Remington Junior Typewriters will be sent "on examination," without obligation to purchase.
